

Stellenbezeichnung: Researcher Biorefinery and Analytics (m/f/d)

Position Title: Researcher Biorefinery and Analytics (m/f/d)

Location: Research & Development, Sappi Gratkorn, Austria

Main parts of job description:

- Development of new biorefinery products and related analytics (offline/inline/online including chemometrics)
- Provide documentation and operating instructions
- Cooperation with the European mills in all biorefinery and analytics issues
- Working in international teams
- Execution and support of R&D projects in cooperation with other departments and external partners
- Continuous improvement of the performance of the departments existing methods and tools
- Promote sustainability throughout all aspects of projects

Qualifications and experience:

- PhD in Chemistry
- Knowledge in the characterisation of lignocellulose is advantageous
- Experience in development of bio-based products at an industrial level is advantageous
- You have excellent command of German (written and spoken)
- You have excellent command of English (written and spoken)
- Computer literate (MS Office, SAP, PowerPoint, Minitab or similar)

Personal Qualities:

- Results-driven personality
- Positive approach to problem solving
- Excellent technical skills
- Project management skills
- Working well in a team, both as a leader or as a member
- Excellent organizing skills
- Excellent communication skills with a customer-oriented approach
- Integrity and compassion

Timetable: November 2020

We offer an annual gross remuneration of EUR 56.000,-- for this position.
Depending on qualifications and/or special professional experience, a higher salary may be agreed upon.

Application details:

All applications will be treated as strictly confidential.
Please submit your application including motivation letter not later than 30th September 2020
via our application tracking system in our Sappi career portal www.sappi.com/careers-sappi-europe

Contact

Ute Grossegger
Telephone: +43 3124 201 2321

How to Apply? Please click on the "Apply" button and follow the system instructions. If you encounter any issue while applying, please contact your HR contact.